

MARINE CORPS AIR STATION BEAUFORT COMMAND PHILOSOPHY

MCAS Beaufort will be a unit comprised of professionally competent, morally grounded, and physically fit personnel, dedicated to our mission and recognized for balanced excellence, integrity, and enthusiasm. I expect every member to commit themselves to both professional and personal excellence. We must approach our duties with initiative and determination. I believe that understanding the following three tenants, we will be a successful as an Air Station and as individuals.

Mission, Marine, Resiliency

The Mission of MCAS Beaufort is to support establishment operations for the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, attached II Marine Expeditionary Force (MEF) units, and Marine Corps Recruit Depot Parris Island/Eastern Recruiting Region.

We will provide quality facilities, ranges, aviation support, and services to promote the readiness, sustainment, resiliency of Fleet Marine Forces, tenant commands, other activities, and individuals directly associated with MCAS Beaufort. Our support is critical to their success.

Each Marine, Sailor and civilian is our most precious resource. The strength and success of MCAS Beaufort is through each of us. For each of us to succeed, we must have the following:

- Professional leadership that provides mentorship and accountability.
- Individual wellness that includes professional and personal development.
- Time management to meet mission requirements and support to our families. Balance is KEY!

We must actively practice and embody Resilience in our lives. For over 250 years, Marines have accomplished missions that others considered too challenging. This enduring success is rooted in who we are—we thrive on challenges and competition. We support one another through both triumphs and hardships, learning from each other's mistakes. This shared experience builds character and makes us stronger, more resilient, and better prepared for the next challenge. By fostering physical, mental, and spiritual well-being, we strengthen our resilience and create a more ready force, always prepared to answer our Nation's call.

I am honored and privileged to serve with the Marines, Sailors, and civilians of MCAS Beaufort. Together, we will uphold the legacy of excellence shown in the history of our Air Station and continue supporting operations while ensuring the welfare of our people and their families.
